Smart measure tape

You can throw away all the other measuring tapes because the Bagel Smart Tape meter will change everything. Bagel uses three modes, String, Wheel, and Remote, to measure everything from the length of the table and the width of the neck inside the curved chair and the distance to the ceiling. With six patented sensors and a digital display that easily switches between inches and centimeters, you'll get extremely accurate results, whether you're measuring flat, curved, or even odd-shaped results. And Bluetooth means you don't need a pen or paper to take notes of how much material to buy or what size it is, because you can tag Bagel measurements with sound and sync them to your phone. Bagel makes measuring a lot less boring. Bagel: The world's smartest measuring tape Bagel is a digital tape measure that intelligently helps you measure, organize and analyze measurement measurements. 10,766 supporters pledged $1,353,798 to help bring this project to life. Last updated May 14, 2018 Discovering cool, smart, and innovative products that you don't even know you need are one of the best perks that crowdfunding brings to supporters. There are so many good products out there that are changing tremendously as we perform sometimes very simple tasks, and Bagel is the perfect example of it. Bagel is the world's smartest tape measure, which is the perfect addition to your toolbox. With this smart tape, you measure digitally, allowing you to organize and analyze measurements through the app, providing intelligent touch for the entire process. Bagel has three different modes: the string mode works like any other given traditional strip (you can also easily switch inches and centimeters); wheel mode, which is perfect for measuring distances on curved surfaces, especially when both hands are not free; and in remote mode, you need to measure up to five meters distances that are far or hard to reach. One of bagel's best features is the built-in voice recorder, which makes transcoding measurements and notes even easier. However, there is a downfall in smart tape - since it is digital and not an actual tape, it is not possible to make ribbon marks. Bagel was a crowdfunding sensation - 10,766 supporters pledged $1,353,798 to help bring this project to life. The super early birds offer the sponsors a 45% discount on the estimated retail price. They were able to get a single pack including Bagel smart tape measure and a USB cable for a lien of $49 USD or more. The Bagel Labs website has smart action available at a price of $89 USD. Not a bad deal for such a good product! Is there a favorite crowdfunded product that brings smart features to our daily lives? Feel free to spread the word and let us know in the comment box! As the smartest measuring tape in the world, Bagel digitally measures your device and allows you to organize and analyze measurements on the go. Paired with the companion app, Bagel has three different measurement modes, including the string mode of the more traditional mode, the wheel mode of length and distance, and the remote mode with a built-in laser pointer. After you've aligned your device and mode, simply click save to pin the numbers. You can even add voice notes that describe what you measured during your project. The app is beautifully simple and organized, so recalling the information takes just seconds. Bagel makes it easy to measure every project. Measure.
